<td>The only globally accepted designation for internal auditors, the CIA remains the standard by which individuals demonstrate their competence and professionalism in the internal audit field. In essence, the CIA designation distinguishes you from your peers, carries weight with internal staff and external clients, demonstrates your proficiency and commitment to professionalism, gives you personal satisfaction of achievement, and lays a foundation for continued career development.</td>
<td>This specialty certification is designed for – and by – public-sector audit practitioners from various levels of government. The program explores candidates’ comprehension of government audit practices, methodologies, environment, and related standards and risk/control models.</td>
<td>This specialty certification is designed for practitioners of control self-assessment (CSA) and enterprise risk management. The exam probes candidates’ knowledge of CSA fundamentals, processes, integration, and related topics such as risk, controls, and business objectives.</td>
<td>This specialty certification is designed for internal auditors and risk management professionals with responsibility for and experience in providing risk assurance, governance processes, quality assurance, or control self-assessment (CSA). It demonstrates an individual’s ability to evaluate the dynamic components that comprise an organization’s governance and enterprise risk management program and provide advice and assurance around these issues.</td>
